Save the date for August wedding expo

Preparations for the 2014 Mackay Wedding Showcase are well underway.

The wedding expo is held annually on the first Sunday in August with a multitude of exhibitors showcasing all that the Mackay region has to offer for those organising special events.

Expo organiser Lucy Dillon, from Lucy Dillon for Brides/Crafty Cat, said the Mackay Wedding Showcase aims to make it easy for brides to organise a wedding in the region.

"We always receive lots of interest throughout the year from businesses wanting to be involved, which is great because having as many businesses in the one place as possible makes it so much easier for those getting married."

"We have already filled the quota for some categories of businesses, but for others it is not too late to book a site to exhibit at the expo."

In the age of internet shopping, Mrs Dillon said there was still a place for wedding expos like the Mackay Wedding Showcase.

"Definitely – it is good to be able to see the real thing at an expo."

"For example, with the roving fashion parades, models walk through the crowd so you can see and even touch the dresses. You can't do that when you are ordering on the internet."

Mrs Dillon said even those not getting married would get something out of the Wedding Showcase.

"Many of these businesses are also experts in organising other special events like birthday parties."

"We want as many people to attend as possible – the more people who attend, the more we can give to the lovely Breast Cancer ladies."

Proceeds from the day's gold coin entry donation goes to Breast Cancer Support Services.
